

On Saturday, February 1, 2020, Kari, Audrey, Robert, Judy, and Jeannine met at the Grey Owl Trail parking lot and enjoyed a beautiful ski. Robert went ahead of the group and had the fire started for everyone in the warm-up shelter upon their arrival. Although it was a very warm day (started at -2 C and ended somewhere in the pluses), it was so nice to have the fire going already, where Kari warmed up part of her foil-wrapped naan veggie pizza on the stove. After a short break, the group skied all the way to Grey Owl's cabin, where we met two more skiers along the way. Robert enjoyed the trail so much that he tacked on an extra ~10 km by skiing back and forth between the cabin and the shelter one more time! On the way back to the trailhead, we stopped once more at the shelter, where the fire was still roaring. Kari heated up the rest of her pizza and the rest of the group enjoyed their cookies and other snacks they brought along.

A good time was had by all!
