

On Sunday, Di and Dennis skied the wilds of the Wheat City Golf Course, on a cool windy afternoon. While not as exhilarating as other venues, this benign location offered an opportunity for Dennis to use his new skis for the first time. We beat a path through five kilometers of deep snow and groomed trails on the upper and lower portions before arriving back at the start point about an hour later. We then enjoyed a hot beverage at the Eagles Nest restaurant and an esoteric conversation that solved many of the world's problems...
